Find Your Courage. Stop Playing Safe. Brave. Make Your Mark. The titles of Margie’s books reflect her passion for helping people make braver decisions and lead bigger lives.

Margie’s had to find her courage many times since growing up as the big sister of seven on a dairy farm in rural Australia. Personal struggles, family tragedies, an armed robbery, backpacking solo around the world, four children in five years: all have taught her valuable lessons on growing resilience, embracing change and building courage.

Today Margie draws on her background in Fortune 500 business, coaching and psychology to arm people with the mindset, strategies and skills essential to achieving stronger outcomes for themselves and others. Her clients include NASA, Accenture, UN Foundation, Facebook, Marriott and Australian Institute of Sport.

A Forbes columnist and host of RawCourage.TV, Margie’s insights have also been shaped by her work and interviews with leaders and luminaries such as Sir Richard Branson, hotelier Bill Marriott, former Australian Prime Minister John Howard, and fellow author and activist Marianne Williamson. Margie has co-authored two other books with fellow thought leaders Stephen Covey, Jack Canfield, Ken Blanchard and John Gray.

An acclaimed speaker internationally, Margie integrates the latest research in mindfulness, neuro-science and positive psychology into her programs which have shown measurable impact on leadership effectiveness, employee engagement and bottom line results.

Her expertise has been sought by a wide range of media outlets including the Today Show, The Wall Street Journal, Al Jazeera, CNN and Psychology Today. She has also lectured to graduate students at Columbia, SMU and Georgetown universities.

A passionate advocate for gender equality, in 2010 Margie founded Global Courage to help women become stronger leaders across all sectors of society. She has since been appointed Australia’s Ambassador for Women in Global Business and has been made an honouree of the Women’s Economic Forum. She’s also an ambassador for Beyond Blue, committed to supporting people affected by mental illness.

An adventurer at heart, Margie has travelled off the beaten track in over 70 countries. She’s crossed the Sahara Desert, stayed in Palestinian refugee camps, run women’s workshops in Nairobi’s Kibera slum, lived three years in Papua New Guinea and eleven in the USA.

When she’s not juggling (and occasionally dropping) the many balls of her international career while raising four teenage children, she enjoys sharing adventures with them and her husband Andrew—most recently summiting Africa’s tallest peak, Mt Kilimanjaro.
